INTRODUCTION

Papers of a Columbia, Missouri, lawyer and amateur local historian. Anecdotes, articles, speeches, and biographical sketches about events, people, and places in Columbia, Boone County, and Missouri. Family papers, correspondence, and some legal and business material.

DONOR INFORMATION

The papers were donated to the University of Missouri by William R. Gentry, Jr. on 27 February 1953 (Accession No. 3158). An addition was made on 10 December 1957 by the University of Missouri Library (Accession No. 3332). Another addition was made on 1 April 1960 by William R. Gentry, Jr. (Accession No. 3431).

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

North Todd Gentry, born in Columbia, Missouri, on March 2, 1866, the son of Thomas Benton and Mary Todd Gentry. He attended the University of Missouri and received a law degree in 1888. His lifetime practice of law in Columbia was periodically interrupted by appointments as Missouri attorney general and Supreme Court justice, district judge, and bankruptcy commissioner. In Columbia he was active in the Boone County Historical Society, the board of education, the Boone County Bar Association, the Kiwanis Club, and the Boone County Hospital Association. He was a Republican, a Mason, and an active member of the Presbyterian Church.

Local history was Gentry's avocation, and he collected a great deal of information on people, places, and events in Columbia and Boone County. He became well-known for his interests and was often asked to give speeches on historical topics.

He married Ulie Belle Denny in 1896, and they had two daughters, Mary and Nadine. North Todd Gentry died in Columbia, at the age of 78, on September 18, 1944.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

The papers have been arranged into the following six series: Correspondence, Family Papers, Legal Papers, Local History, Presbyterian Church, and Printed Material.

The most valuable part of this collection is the Local History series, which is arranged alphabetically by subject. All the material in this series was written by Gentry who compiled a great amount of material covering a broad range of subjects. The entries are, for the most part, about everyday occurrences in Columbia and Boone County—the most striking example being the numerous accounts of accidents that befell the people and animals of Columbia. Gentry's arrangement is sometimes odd. For example, while the section on rivers and streams contains some information about a certain river, the section mostly deals with unrelated events whose only connection is that they occurred near that particular river or stream. For many of the events, no date is provided. The biographical sketches are generally about Columbia merchants, businessmen, and university and community leaders, with fewer entries about workers, women, or blacks.

The collection contains a wealth of information for the social historian. The information is often not presented in a systematic or analytical fashion. Taken as a whole, however, it is a valuable, if unusual, collection of local history.

The family, personal, and business correspondence is not complete and does not give a comprehensive picture of Gentry's life. The papers provide little insight into Gentry's activities as attorney general, Missouri Supreme Court justice, or district judge. Likewise, material on his civic and legal activities in Columbia is limited.

The Printed Material series contains printed material collected by Gentry. Included are programs, pamphlets, three volumes, and miscellaneous papers.

More complete series descriptions can be found in the folder list.
