This collection is available at The State Historical Society of Missouri. If you would like more information, please contact us at shsresearch@umsystem.edu.

This is one of a thousand one dollar promissory notes issued by B. F. Carney at Crane in Stone County, Missouri. The notes were issued to prove a Depression-era theory of money, and they circulated widely as currency in the community. A photocopy of a letter written by Carney’s son in 1969 explains the history of the notes.

Index Cards

Agard, Rollin F.
Carney, B. F., -1937
Carney, Lynn D.
Crane (Mo.)
Currency [SEE Money.]
Money
Money supply—Missouri—Stone County
Stone County (Mo.)