Margaret Wallace Flower Blumenhorst, the granddaughter of Laura Watts Wallace and James Craig Wallace, donated the Blumenhorst papers to the State Historical Society of Missouri in March 1984.

The marriage of Laura Holloway Watts (1854-1940) and James Craig Wallace (1840-1916) in 1877 united five Missouri families. Laura Watts descended from the Watts, Lewis, and Woodson families, and James Craig Wallace from the Craig and Wallace families. Members of the five families settled along the Chariton and Missouri Rivers in Howard and Chariton Counties of Missouri in 1817-1820.

Early ancestors of the five families came to Virginia from England, Ireland, and Scotland. There they became planters and intermarried with the Smiths, Harrises, Washingtons, Jeffersons and Mortons. During the Revolutionary War most fought for independence, including Major Andrew Wallace (1748-1829), great-grandfather of James Craig Wallace, and Obediah Smith(1749-1810) and Jacob Woodson (1748-1839), great-grandfathers of Laura Watts Wallace.

After the Revolutionary War, Major Andrew Wallace received a land grant from the State of Virginia in the Kentucky territory. In 1782 Andrew Wallace and his wife Catherine Parks Wallace (1749-1825) moved to Lincoln County, Kentucky. Samuel Wallace (1770-1852), their oldest son, married Anna Snoddy (1778-1861) of Kentucky, in 1798 before migrating westward to Missouri. According to a family legend, Indians in Kentucky captured Anna Snoddy's youngest sister, Libby, in the early nineteenth century. The oldest son of the Samuel Wallace's eleven children, John Snoddy Wallace, married Idress Craig in 1833. Her father, Colonel Hiriam Craig, came to Missouri from Kentucky in 1819. John and Idress became the parents of James Craig Wallace in 1840.

Laura Watts Wallace's grandmother, Mary Burke Smith (1781-1866), married William Watts (1779-1840). Their son, James J. Watts (1818-1894), married Martha Woodson Lewis (1820-1907) in 1840. Martha's parents Henry Lewis (1782-1873) and Elizabeth Woodson Lewis (1790-1857), moved to Glasgow, Missouri from Virginia in 1817, along with Elizabeth Woodson Lewis' parents. Henry Lewis, a judge, settled on a farm called Hackleberry Grove, and became active in the educational and cultural institutions in Glasgow. Reverend William Henry Lewis, Henry's son, established the Montecello Male and Female Seminary in the late 1830s.

James Jordan Watts became a doctor in Fayette, Missouri. James Craig Wallace attended the University of Missouri and became a lawyer. John Snoddy Wallace and Robert Bruce (b. 1844) became doctors. James and Robert Wallace participated in the Civil War as members of the Confederate Army. John Snoddy Wallace (1849-1916) also served as a member of the Missouri Senate.

Laura Watts Wallace and James Craig Wallace had three daughters, Idress Elizabeth (1878-1959), Agnes Stanford (1879-1945), and Margaret Cotilde (1882-1914). Agnes and Margaret never married. In 1915 Idress Elizabeth Wallace married William E. Flower of St. Louis. Their daughter, Margaret Wallace Flower (b. 1918), later married Karl Blumenhorst of St. Louis.

SCOPE AND CONTENT

The Blumenhorst papers document the histories of the Craig, Lewis, Watts, Wallace, and Woodson families from 1586-1959. Genealogical records trace family roots back to the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries in England and eighteenth century settlement in America. However, the bulk of the material consists of letters (1821-1959) written by the Lewis, Watts, Wallace and Woodson family members who migrated westward during the nineteenth century. The letters, along with legal papers (1790-1892), and a 1849 Gold Rush Diary document the work, social activities and travels of the Lewis, Watts and Wallace families who settled in the Missouri counties of Howard and Chariton in the 1820s. The collection also reflects social and political conditions in Missouri and the United States during the nineteenth century, including westward expansion, slavery, and the Civil War. Personal papers include a narrative describing the capture of Anna Snoddy Wallace's sister, Libby, by the Indians in the early nineteenth century.

The collection contains copies of the original papers which were returned to the donor. Four series comprise the collection. Series 1 includes correspondence, 1821-1959. Series 2 contains legal papers and accounts, 1790-1892. Personal papers, including family genealogies, comprise Series 3, and Series 4 includes newsclippings, 1832-1945.
