Historical Note:

The International Women of Columbia (I.W.C) was patterned after a program that existed in the state of Michigan. Mary Catherine Strain Cowgill founded the organization. She received her M.A. in Math from the University of Kansas and taught high school and college math for 30 years. She and her husband, Dr. Donald O. Cowgill were active in humanitarian efforts in their community and other parts of the world. Both taught at Chiengmai University in Northern Thailand in the late 1960s. The couple moved to Columbia, Missouri, in 1970. Mary Cowgill tutored international students in English, U.S. Customs and edited their PhD theses. The purpose of the I.W.C. was to offer friendship, understanding and assistance to women from other countries during their stay in Columbia. The I.W.C. became an official organization in 1976. Women of all nations were invited to participate in the monthly meetings. The programs and entertainment were designed to represent every country. The organization was based on pure friendship and was not a political or religious organization. The organization continued into the early 1990s, at which point it disbanded.
