This collection is available at The State Historical Society of Missouri. If you would like more information, please contact us at research@shsmo.org.

INTRODUCTION
The Lester Mondale Lecture is a recording of Mondale’s address to the Ethical Society of St. Louis on March 15, 1970. His lecture was entitled “When is a Person Most Truly Human?”. The lecture is recorded on one cassette tape.

DONOR INFORMATION
The lecture was loaned to the University of Missouri for copying by Lester Mondale on 17 August 1984 (Accession No. 238).

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH
Lester Mondale was a noted Unitarian minister and prominent Humanist. He was born on May 28, 1904, in Minnesota. Mondale was called to Unitarianism while studying at Hamline University. He went on to earn a degree from the Harvard Divinity School. Mondale led congregations across America during his career as a minister. He is the author of several books on religion and a signatory on all three Humanist Manifestos. Mondale died on August 19, 2003.

FOLDER LIST
f. 1 Recording of Lecture, March 15, 1970

INDEX TERMS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Subject</th>
<th>Folder</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Mondale, Lester (1904-2003)</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>