Historical Note:

The Farmer’s Cooperative Association, Inc. was an organization dedicated to improving the economic welfare of Missouri farmers. Membership in the association was restricted to white, male farmers who were 21 years or older and believed in a “supreme being.” Article X of their constitution called for the establishment of a “County Warehouse” run by a “County Manager” to be operated in each county for the benefit of members.

Arrangement:

The collection consists of one item in one folder.
