Arrangement:

The collection has been arranged by accession into the following 5 series:

Local History
Business History
Personal Papers
Photographs
Postcards

Scope and Content Note:

Local History

This series contains materials related to the history of the people and places of southern and central Missouri. These materials include church and school records, maps, directories, genealogical materials, and articles. Folder 43 contains a 45 record of a song recorded by the band Sinkin' Creek. The folders in the oversize sub series are stored separately from collection for preservation purposes.

Business Records

This series consists of materials pertaining to various businesses located in southern and central Missouri. This includes stock certificates and promotional materials. The materials are organized by accession and are kept in their original order.

Personal Papers

This series contains the personal papers of various families and individuals from southern and central Missouri. These materials include correspondence, family histories, genealogical records, personal research, photographs, oral histories, local history, and family business records. The materials are organized by accession and are kept in their original order.

Photographs

This series contains photographs with images of people, places, and events from southern and central Missouri. The materials are organized by accession and are kept in their original order.

Postcards

This series consists of postcards depicting images of individuals, places, and events mainly from southern and central Missouri. The folders are organized by subject and then alphabetically by county. These postcards include notable images of county courthouse, area attractions, Route 66, trains, aerial views, and historic homes, including the homes of President Harry S. Truman, Jesse James, Laura Ingalls Wilder, and Mark Twain.
