DONATE MATERIALS TO THE STATE HISTORICAL SOCIETY OF MISSOURI

For more than one hundred years, the State Historical Society of Missouri has been committed to documenting the history of the state and its people. Enrich the collections with your photographs, books, art, or papers and help make Missouri's history more vibrant and complete.

What does SHSMO collect?

As the state's major repository of private, or non-governmental, historical documents, the Society accepts many types of donations, including:

- Newspapers
- Maps
- Written records of individuals, families, and organizations, and businesses
- Photographs
- Original art by Missouri artists
- Paintings, political cartoons, and fine art prints
- Diaries, journals, memoirs and scrapbooks
- Architectural records
- Published resources on the history of the state and the lives of its citizens, ranging from scholarly books to the works of local societies

What will happen to my donation?

Your priceless resources will be preserved with other related materials and secondary sources that enhance their historical value and promote frequent use. A secure environment and professional staff to process your items and provide access to them also helps ensure that current and future scholars, journalists, genealogists, and students can discover the ways that you advanced history.

Following execution of the deed of gift, the material will be arranged according to archival best practices and stored in secure, restricted-access buildings with controlled environmental conditions. If a donation includes sensitive materials, its use may be restricted for a period of time. All research materials may be used at any of the Research Centers. Continuous professional care is provided to all collections, and use is closely supervised by the staff.

SUPPORT SHSMO

How is SHSMO funded?

The State Historical Society of Missouri is only partially funded through state appropriation and therefore appreciates, and increasingly depends on, the thousands of individual members, corporate and institutional supporters, and generous donors who enable fulfillment of the mission to collect, care for, and provide access to the materials that document Missouri history.

Membership

If you are not yet a member, please consider joining, and remember that dedicated donations protect and promote use of special collections.

ADDITIONAL RESOURCES

Appraisals

The State Historical Society of Missouri does not provide appraisals for tax purposes due to potential conflicts of interest. If you have questions about the value of your material, the American Society of Appraisers is often a good resource to find a listing of local contacts. See appraisers.org for more information.

Deductions

Tax law is subject to change, but it may be possible for you to take a deduction for materials that are not self-created. Consult your tax accountant, refer to appropriate Internal Revenue Service publications, and visit irs.gov for more information.

Copyright

Copyright refers to ownership of the contents of a document, rather than ownership of the physical item, and resides with the creator of the document until he or she legally transfers it to another person or institution. The deed of gift transfers copyright from a donor to SHSMO with the exception of copyrights to published works from which donors may still derive income. This transfer is important to make documents fully available to researchers. Please be advised that copyright law is subject to change.

The Society of American Archivists has useful information on copyright. It may be found by searching "copyright" at www2.archivists.org.
